Geochemical Journal (GJ) will become a fully open access journal from January 2022. Under the new open access system, authors are charged an Article Processing Charge (APC) for publishing the papers and the open access papers will be available online free of charge to anyone immediately after the publication.

GJ publishes papers in six categories:

Invited Reviews (No APC)

Express Letters

Notes

Critical Comments

Editor's Choice Papers (No APC): Editorial Board chooses one paper per one issue.

Editor's Choice Special Issues (No APC): Editorial Board chooses Special Issues.

The regular APC for GJ is ¥150,000 per article.

The Geochemical Society of Japan (GSJ) will support half of the charge, i.e., ¥75,000 is charged for papers submitted before June 2022. In addition, the GSJ will support a part of the APC of ¥50,000 for GSJ members, which means that only ¥25,000 is charged for the papers of the authors with a GSJ membership.

The APC will be ¥50,000 per article for GSJ members and ¥100,000 per article for non-members for about 2 years after June 2022,

We are planning to offer other APC discounts such as student support and special issue discounts.
